Shrimp

The word shrimp originated way back around the 14th century, with ties to the Middle Low German word schrempen, meaning to contract or wrinkle.

In 2018, Joey Chestnut set the record for most shrimp eaten in 8 minutes at the St. Elmo Shrimp Cocktail Eating Championship. Joey ate 18 lbs and 9.6 oz of shrimp.

There are 2,000 shrimp species in the world.

Shrimp are fast swimmers, they can swim up to 30 shrimp body lengths per second.

Shrimp is the most consumed seafood in the United States.

In total, Americans consume one billion lbs of shrimp each year.

Shrimp are considered opportunistic omnivores. They will literally eat any organic matter available, anything.
